Across the Chattahoochee Valley, families are working hard to build stable lives.

Our neighbors are raising children, caring for loved ones, and planning for the future. Many are doing everything right, yet still struggle to get ahead as the cost of housing, child care, health care, and everyday necessities continues to rise.

United Way brings people, partners, and resources together so every child, family, and neighbor has the opportunity to succeed.

We Invest.

Local Dollars Stay Local

We invest in trusted local nonprofit partners and proven programs that deliver measurable results. Every dollar raised in the Chattahoochee Valley stays here, creating opportunities for local children, families, and neighbors.

We Lead.

Driving Community Solutions

Beyond grantmaking, United Way leads collaborative initiatives that address our region's greatest challenges. We bring partners together to strengthen systems, expand opportunity, and create lasting change.

We Connect.

Bringing People Together

We connect employers, volunteers, nonprofits, schools, healthcare providers, local governments, and community leaders to solve challenges no one organization can solve alone.

UNITED WAY-LED STRATEGIES

211 Community Resource Center:

Connecting people to food, shelter, care, and other essential community resources.

Community Investment: Investing donor dollars in accredited nonprofit partners addressing our community's greatest needs.

Community Schools United: Helping students succeed through stronger partnerships between schools, families, and the community.

Home for Good: Leading efforts to prevent homelessness and create long-term workforce housing solutions in our region.

Resilient Chattahoochee Valley: Building resilience by expanding access to trauma-informed support and resources.

The Basics Chattahoochee Valley: Giving families simple, research-based ways to support healthy early childhood brain development.

COMMUNITY RESILIENCY

When Ms. Kizzie and her family experienced an unexpected housing crisis, her daughter, Journey, a student at Dorothy Height Elementary School, was able to stay focused on learning because her school's Community Schools United team was there to help. United Way quickly connected the family to temporary housing and, through ongoing support and community partnerships, helped them secure a stable home. Along the way, Ms. Kizzie completed a job readiness program and the family regained the stability they needed to move forward.

Today, Journey can focus on her only job: showing up to school ready to learn. An honor roll student with perfect attendance, she and her family now look toward the future with confidence.
